The roles of men and women are so confusing now

Women make more than men, more schooled too

On top of that to provide a house, cars, water, chow

Takes money more than most have even if they pooled to

Moreover men don't often talk, no rites of passage or coming of age. Many judged for having rage.

Biological aggression, wants and needs passed down

So many men just trying not to drown, trapped by frowns

A search for meaning and as a sage said many distract themselves with pleasure, when in the past we hunted and searched for treasure, even that now is sport only.

So what makes a man now? How can we find meaning?

I find some in aggressive pursuits, and being a gentleman, I work to be aware, and care for those who don't fare well.

I dare dwell on this because meaning gives life and makes strife doable. It is a clearing of mind with filter of a soul's work, No talk work when chasing that.

So here I am sat, on my mat dreaming of a day where I have captured the cat of meaning.
