

Ego

the part of you not of your soul

It whispers in your head, starves your core from being fed Many say it makes competition possible, but what if?
There is a world where expansion comes in its stead Compete but against one self in a purely positive experience.
Now, this does not mean there is no darkness just that there is a better way today. perfectly powerfully executed

Ego-Dead & Hungry it is not just something read

Take to bed the limits of the mind, Kill them there and you will see how you fare with simply self-esteem and good habits bred.

Deny those with egos the pleasure of competing against you since it's only you against you.

Ah, but see what I did? That line is in groups out groups. The whole people getting in troupes when in reality it is only you.

There is no crew

The only coup to stage is in your mind
Stay on your grind and remember The goal is peace in your soul