

Failure, despicable
a sinking, crushing of the insides Shame, a profound rotting mold Results of an ingrained should the darkness seeps into esteem and power crumbling the foundations, dust scattering

You see, this is the reality of this man
There is no love little dove, not without perfection Workout, have money, be healthy, Be strong Be gentle, Be a gentleman, Be a Betterman, Man..
Be smart, Be kind, Carry the weight No smile.? Why not.? Tell me about it.

Oh, but if you knew... no chance. The strongest hearts, even the lovers, behind the eyes it shows this is the deepest pain, the loss of love because you know me.

So on I walk, with brothers who do
For we go to battle, a coup of the mind.
What you adore is broken, forever and always.
A broken man is a whole one in this world.

Or so my life has taught There is always a hope, never rewarded that someday I will be known and loved

Perhaps it has been rewarded
Perhaps this fear has separated me from the moment
Protection from a temporary failure, resulting in harm Oh how I've failed, forever and always
And yet in that moment I have succeeded.