

So much time alone we now all spend
A flip on its head from society on the mend Shared smiles and hugs & what we must tend
For what brings us together is knowing each other

Many a time have I seen eyes avoided, sorrys blocked, chances not taken Isolation has increased with this exciting new tech Tired, hungry, lost, drained, our brains have experienced a break in For these dopamine dumping devices have made us slaves to their call and worry, fear, stress, desperation from people with fake zen
These narratives of doom perpetuated to break necks

So know this dear people
The antidote is this
Connect, learn, give, and play
Find people, exchange presence, day after day,
Chase curiosity, the things that excite and fly away
Give when its hard, and let go. a valuable foray Perform for fun, go hard but enjoy you may

This is the way of the world and how we can change
So if you agree that where we're headed is strange
It is the time to arrange
Together as one we can break chains.
