

Big dreams and Big Swings lead to Big teams and Big things.

See it in your mind, grasp it turn it, twist it, taste it, try it

Know there is no other option but the path you see

You must take it, for the only other path is regret.

Regret you must flee, it is no path at all for the passionate man.

He is eaten by the flames or driven by them

They crackle, pop, whistle and plot

Whether they were innate or ignited they know no bounds Paired with wonder and wisdom with work and williness
They jump roads, climb mountains, consume the fuel of the world Doubt, shame, rejection is swirled up and spit out.

Ignored or used for the warpath they are on There is no obstacle that causes any moment of pause.
The laws of nature apply here and I am fit

There are no equals, so either compete or take the bit pull someone else's chariot forward. You see you have been forewarned Big dreams require Big swings

So cap your downside, leverage your upside and go for a ride. Surf the tides of the world, know that preparation and positioning create opportunities, but first passion creates the energy for any endeavor follow it over what's in fashion Build skills, give heart and you will cash in, but don't sell out for compounding is the route to Big things know that the greats often miss their small teams, but if you are blessed with any team set incentives well and all will be swell
