

Time is everything
How you use it; what you choose to do with it is your meaning

Knowing it's finite adds hues, makes you enjoy views
These sights and colors make you ask
Am I choosing it wisely?

For soon we all will be in a cask
And I for one do not go silently.

Pour my heart onto the pavement
Soar from the start and they'll care in Attack the bones, forget the meat
No need to behave, let them rave then
Do what's actually important not what life gave _{me}

Got your attention?

ODDS are you die, sooner than you think
Statistically 1-3000 weeks til you're gone

So dear god let it dawn

It's time to turn the urgency on
