

An interesting feeling in the pit of my stomach
A primal urge to keep what's yours yours
Seeking and sickening it invades the mind chattering like the devil on my shoulder, cackling as my thoughts crack

You see I've done my tours, I've lived and will more
I wonder about time and what I will find
I ponder my choices and think about what I lack My thoughts dance and I hope they'll reach peace

I repeat in my head an old saying that success is just leased
Pain plays as I am picturing a better future
You see the devil says pick again and I say
