

A conversation between me and spirit

Inwards I go towards the spirit that knows on this journey I bring a disconnection that stings an onsyness I feel, so here I kneel dear spirit show me, it is you who knows me

Inwards I go towards the spirit that knows
I offer this hunger and examine it with you this impatience I feel is a feeling untrue
You, the spirit, will take me as you do

So Inwards I go towards the spirit that knows I am here and I am open to the greatness that is near I will let you, spirit, lead with no fear
This is no time to listen with ear, but rather with heart

So Inwards I go towards the spirit I am Let loose the dam of the mind, release the water of peace water me as though I am parched of you My hands, my body, my mind, my thoughts yours

The spirit is me and I am it I kneel on the steps to the halls of history
I prepare to carve myself out of a quarry For the spirit may lead me on that dual path it takes Down into the pits of darkness with a hammer and chisel
But I know, I trust that I am a painting on spirit's easel
I must be patient of mind, so the spirit may show me
The way aligned
