It feels like I'm spinning my wheels

I am watching the grains of sand fall in the hourglass of life
On what strife, I am mortal and my precious time is taken
The cost of not knowing what to do cuts me like a knife

I am no Gite, I take action and create things yet here I am there can be no wife without focus here, and yet those options are near, I have a woman and my health, but cannot win a those without being a man who knows his purpose

They say this is the moment to pray. To converse with spirit and trust that I will hear it. Here I am, lead me, show me guide me. For I am ready and open. I do not wait for things to happen, I am already taking action. Please give me a way into history and show me.

For I am a believer. There will be a day where the value is created and I have learned.

My dreams come true spirit, as a function of belief in you
