

I sit alone on my apartment floor having just taken a tour of statistics and news looking for information that may inform my views
I let my mind meet the world for a brief moment or two
I think through the future, and can't help but think of you
As I chew on these trends and I search for gaps or wins

I am evermore grateful for your perspective, your lens
Fast Forward some days, this I would still say

For if a conflict were to come up, into it we will foray

You see, we are unlike others who would kill a love over details, we refuse to fail. We endure like a mill.
They, the others may not change, if so they ail, an ill fate

We flow and improve, no bail or avoidance, no one filled with hate

We care, we dare, we care well, but no good byes

No rails neither, we fly like air, but grace unlike a gale

Love and live, give gifts of purity our hearts a surety

You are a catch, as am I. Together we fit like a glove.

We weave a masterpiece I can only hope to match with words
Leave mediocrity, release limits, no maping, Forwards we go

Let this poem feel like a snowball rolling downhill

For you are not just a Jill and I am not Jack

Let us attack what lacks in this world.

We will, we will.
