

Troubled mind, full day grind my path it winds, but I won't whine
I put my life into this work, so that I may call peace mine
Many a night, my brain still fights
Endless thoughts of what to do
Results still feel like so few
It is in this moment I know I must just let go
The inputs are mine, the outputs are not

Trust the Flow, Trust the Flow
I feel this pressure of momentum kept from these highs I feel, when sometimes low makes sense.
I feel this pull from this woman over whom I've wept
A special one, who has helped me heal
I feel this hunger of fire within wanting for those fleeting wins

I seek out the work that makes me glow
I will trust the Flow trust the Flow
What a life I get to live and a set of learnings to give
I will exalt the wisdom with elegance like cursive
A river of love will pour forth
My heart will ache, but it will not break
For I have been there before and came back with a roar
I will live, I will love, and I will find land like the deer
Focus on control, or distrust is the foe

So I will trust the Flow trust the Flow
Every hour of wakefulness will be used on the inputs
I choose. For I am awake and will live life with fullness
This is the way of my world so I will enjoy the views
The rays of sunshine on me as fortune does on those who dare do
Do I will, Live I will, Love I will
I will not just sit by the window
I will trust the Flow