

A world of layers of characters, cunning, and sometimes cockiness an interesting series of games and social politics

Made complicated by power and pressure

I suppose the characters are the product of politics and pressure

A glaring result, odd conduct that needs analytics and Leaves me needing some space and fresh air

Now I am a man that does not choose flair

a lesson learned as a boy developing my views

One of many like, do not be coy, or the best game is no name, but that's not news. What is important to know though is understanding all the cues

Money, Ideology, Coercion or Compromise, and ego some of those tell you its time to go, others still help you flow

as