

Now that you're gone, who's going to care ~~about me~~
It used to be that you were only there for me
Now it is me that is only there for it
The highs and lows of life cut sharp as a knife, bringing awareness to the emptiness of options to celebrate and mourn in times of strife.

Someone said how a thought like this is selfish, Perhaps it is a bell ringing in my head that I miss Pangs of pain strike at inopportune moments pulling me out of the present
Maybe somehow this is better for you, and if so I must forgive
But nonetheless I am longing to live with you in this lonely world
Like a rain cloud that follows me, as I feel more old Rather than be stuck on why, I think how,

How can I honor you in the things I do?
Give hugs, fight hard, work in the community. Be soft lead with heart not hand. Eat good, play, design beauty into life Heal, do not just pave over the past, purge it, love it, be in it
In these actions and more I know there will be a door 2 u

The belief I choose is that you did what you could You loved and lived to your capacity. Everything you left on the field. Your grit and the fire inside you lit me
I burn on in the darkness