

The illusion of reality

The reality of illusion

The unconsciousness of thinking

The consciousness of lacking thoughts

There are constant complex curiosities in this wild world what may be, not yet is, what was, is not It is all only now, from you.

Be aware, as in breathe deep

And then go farther, falling with your heart forward Search for the moments where your soul is full

Flow from you into the world as it comes back

There is no lack, only what is not yet found

The peace of gratitude and gratitude of peace.

Peace is success, but many still look for pieces.

Mistakes made by trying to take or being fake

When instead they could make waves, win and create wonder through goodness

It is a myth after all that greatness is mutually exclusive with goodness. In fact it is a truth only those who don't believe would miss you see believing is seeing. Those who heed this, craft the world around them with their minds. As these compounding effects grow, one gets to focus on being rather than trying.