

There is something about creating
That feels so whole
Regardless of whether or not I start with a specific goal.

Poetry, Paintings, Projects
It just fills my soul this production

Now sometimes it's important to ask, does this get me anywhere?
And all I know is anywhere is not found by being a square.
Quality and difference are the ingredients
Necessary for a product through any lens

Dyson, Redbull, Delvecchio, Jobs created with compulsion ignorant entirely that 'perfection robs'

The joy was from excellence and the pursuit of it.

Just remember not to stop when people curse you
Those nancy's haven't been where you're going Another piece to be aware of is that you are not towing insecurity, bad friends, others desires

Just go inwards and find your own fire
For the mad men that change the world?
They don't have limiting goals
They create because it makes them whole