

What an insane period of history to be living tech boom, all, (highschool) cut by covid, and now the singularity. It is just as the sci-fi movies have foreseen.

But it seems like people are reacting to this like it's on a movie screen, it's not.

Every job on a laptop gone, robots soon after do manual labor, after they can talk and do other work meanwhile we will have an intelligence smarter than us There is no con here, this is happening now and not at a walk, files of data: power fly through the air already we are in the future.

So I sit and wonder how might this play out.
How can I provide for my family?
